My friend Cherry and I decided to go to Ocean Park together today. We felt excited. We were on cloud nine. We looked forward to our trip. We went there by bus.

When we were waiting for a bus at the bus stop this morning, we saw a girl who was in a pink T-shirt and a purple dress across the street. She was looking at her mobile phone. The pedestrian light was red and the girl was still looking at her mobile phone. However, she started crossing the street. It was extremely dangerous. A blue private car from far away came towards the girl. The girl did not notice the car was coming. She kept looking at her mobile phone. At that moment, Cherry and I shouted, 'Look out! The car is coming!' The girl wanted to run fast but she twisted her ankle. She fell onto the ground. Cherry and I were worried. We were like ants on a hot pan.

Unfortunately, the car crashed into the girl. The driver got out of the car and he dialed 999. The girl was bleeding. She could not move. Five minutes later, the ambulance arrived. The girl was sent to the hospital. I wish the girl will be fine. I learnt that we should pay attention to road safety.
