Last Saturday, I went to Rainbow School Fun Fair. There were some game stalls in the playground, some children were playing games. They were enjoying the games.

I won a game so I got a purple toy car. Andy gave me the prize. He said, 'Congratulations!' I said, 'Thank you!'

While I was looking at the game stall, Ben suddenly took away my toy car.

I was shocked.

I told the teacher that Ben had took away my toy car. The teacher said, "Don't worry. I will find Ben and tell him to give you back your toy car." The teacher found Ben and said to him, "You can't steal Jason's toy car but you can win one yourself." Ben said, "But I don't know how." The teacher said, "I will tell you how but you need to give Jason back his toy car and say sorry to him first.' Ben said, 'Ok!' Ben quickly find me and say sorry to me. I said, 'It's okay but you can't steal anyone's things ever again.' Ben said, 'Ok.' The teacher said, 'Now you have apologized, I will teach you how to win a toy car.' The teacher

Sp. (taught) taught him how to win a toy car. He won a toy car. He was happy. He learn to never steal anyone's things.
