

It was my birthday yesterday. Dad gave me my birthday present. I immediately opened my present happily. It was a model car that I wanted for a long time! 'Thank you Dad!' I cheered. I was as happy as a bird.

Then, I went to the park and played with it with the remote control. Immediately, A pair of twins saw my model car. They yelled, 'Wow!' They were amazed.

Suddenly, the pair of twins took away my model car. I was angry. I rushed and shouted, 'Give me back my model car!' I took it from them. When they saw that they could not play with the model car, they cried their eyes out.

Their Dad saw the twins crying, so he came over and asked me what happened. I told him about the model car. He said, 'Sorry. Can you play with them? Or can you lend the model car to them?' 'Of course, I can play with them,' I replied.

At the end, we played together happily and we became friends.
