It was my birthday yesterday. My dad gave me a toy robot for my birthday present. I was as happy as a lark. My cousins did not join the party but they gave me gifts too. I have never received such a lot of presents from my friends and relatives.

When it was time for a cake, I was blissful to be with my dad, mum and my little sister. I was delighted to make a birthday wish. Suddenly, I heard a shout. My sister carelessly knocked the toy robot off. It made my blood run cold.

I was angry and it made my blood boil. I scolded my little sister. She was as scared as a mouse and cried.

In the end, my dad played a magic. The broken toy robot disappeared. The new one appeared. How surprising!
