It was my birthday yesterday. At nine, my family held a birthday party to celebrate my birthday. I felt so surprised. Later my dad gave me a birthday present. It was my favourite robot. I was on cloud nine.

When it was time for the cake, my father put the candle on the cake and lit it up. Then I closed my eyes and made a wish sincerely. When my sister was clapping her hands happily, she knocked the robot off the table. It was on the floor and broken into a few pieces. I heard the strange noise and opened my eyes. When I saw my new robot was on the floor, I was as angry as a bull. I lost my temper and scolded my sister. She was scared and stood beside my sister. She cried sadly.

In the end, I read the instructions again. I found that the robot was magnetic. I could fix it easily. I was to kick myself as I scolded my sister. I said sorry to her.
