

Lost in Time:
My Day in the 1950s Hong Kong

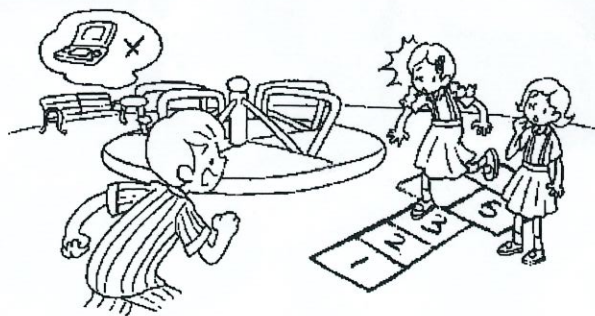

By Samuel Cheng (J.5)

Let me tell you a story of time travelling. I travelled back to Hong Kong in the 1950s. When I woke up, I heard some noise. I looked outside and I saw the view of old Hong Kong. In the past, people used to live in low-rise buildings. Nowadays, people usually live in high-rise buildings. I could only see the low-rise buildings outside. This was totally different than the view I usually see.

After I saw the strange view outside, I decided to go out and see what was going on. When I went out, I rushed to the park with my pyjamas since I saw two girls playing hopscotch there. In the past, people used to play roundabout. Nowadays, people play electronic games, such as Roblox and Brawl Star. I really wanted to know what happened.

I was frustrated and homesick. (feeling) I was as bored as an empty hallway. I sat on the roundabout and thought, 'I missed my home. I want to go back to 2025.' The girls saw my being very upset so they said, 'Don't worry! You will be fine!'

Suddenly, I heard an enormous sound. I was shocked and woke me up. I said, 'This dream was terrifying!'
